

RANSOM QUOTES

- [A] "... the knock of bone on bone as two lives collide and were irrevocably changed."
- [A] "... he felt his soul change colour."
- [Pr} "... Chance?..." (repeated)
- [Pr] "... Yes, yes, he thinks, all this I know is unprecedented. But so is his plan ..."
- [Pr] "... He feels so bold now, defiant. Sure of his decision ..."
- [Pr] "... Only that I am still here. Fixed and permanent. Unchangeable, therefore unchanged."
- [Pr] "... I believe that is needed to cut this knot that we are all tied in is something that has never been done or thought of. Something impossible. Something new."
- [Pr] "... there might be another way of naming what we call fortune ... To try something that might force events into a different course ..."
- [Pr] "... By going to Achilles ... stripped of all glistening distractions and disguises, as I am."
- [Pr] "... Mightn't it be time for me to explore myself at last to what is merely human."
- [Pr] "... I cannot stop what may be about to occur. That I leave, as I must, to the gods."
- [S] "... But you worry just the same, it's in our nature. We're tied that way, all of us..."
- [Pr] "... He had got used to the place and the small pleasures it provided ... He would remember this ..."
- [A] "... His disappointment dissolves into another, deeper sorrow ..."
- [Pr] "... I should be very sorry if any harm came to you on my account. But in that we are in other hands. Both of us ..."
- [A] "... Something in him has freed itself and fallen away. A need, an obligation. Everything around him has subtly changed."
- [A] "... And the place itself, now that he has discovered it, in a way that he cannot account for."
- [A] "... It is ... a joke of the kind the gods delight in ..."